Figure S1: Illustration of the differences in dairy cattle production systems in terms of concentrates needed, milk price and milk production throughout the year and the temporal relationship with the vector active window and time of calving. The implications for estimating disease impact are explained in the boxes on the right.